Lesson 8

Israel Approaches Mt. Sinai

God had been silent toward the Israelites for over four hundred years, but He had not forgotten His promise to deliver them from bondage, and He was able to carry it out. The book of Exodus shows a progression of God drawing the people to Himself. God was not just interested in Moses or any one leader. He wanted each and every individual to come to Him. Now God was preparing to develop the communication necessary for them to commune with Him.

God directed Moses to lead the people out of Egypt, which separated them from direct Egyptian influence even though there was still the mixed multitude. The Israelite nation had no direction to go other than to follow Moses and God. God led them with a pillar of fire by night and a pillar of cloud by day until they reached Mt. Sinai.

In Exodus 19 God began telling Moses what to say to the people at Mt. Sinai. The LORD told Moses to remind them of what He had done to the Egyptians and how He had brought them safely to Himself. He used the picture of eagle's wings. This is a picture of how an eaglet is fully prepared for flight before it ever begins to fly. For an eagle this is important because it could fall to its death from its high nest if it did not fly the first time. Even if it does fall the mother eagle catches it on her wings and returns it to the nest. God prepared the Israelites just as carefully.

God also presented some promises and conditions for Moses to deliver. Moses delivered all of God's words to the people. Then the LORD God invited all the people to come worship Him at Mt. Sinai. God is holy and the people could not bear to listen even though they affirmed their intentions to obey a number of times. The first time God spoke to the people they responded in fear. They told Moses to listen for them which Moses did. God gave Moses the laws and ordinances.

We must teach our children of God's desire to draw each individual to Himself. Young children do not need to memorize the Ten Commandments; however, they can learn to count to ten, and they can learn some of the summarized version of God's commandments from Matthew 22:37,39 "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind.... You shall love your neighbor as yourself." Older children can do more.

The laws God gave Moses showed that man was not able to satisfy the requirement of a holy and righteous God on his own. God even provided a whole set of laws regarding sacrifices to make when the law was broken. Each time, God initiated the relationship between God and man. See your Bible or the Story Page for more details.

God is consistent about His rejection of sin. God's law shows us that we cannot please Him. We cannot keep His law, and sin does have consequences. God is gracious and merciful, but there will be a judgment day when He will ask what we have done with Jesus. Jesus is our covering for sin if we have claimed Him; otherwise we have no right to be in God's presence.

As we consistently teach our children to follow the house rules, they will fail repeatedly, and we can then teach them about the price and payment for sin. Natural consequences are a wonderful way to associate these truths. As a child disobeys a rule, he can learn that there must be a payment for breaking the rules. Eventually he can learn that Jesus made the payment for us. Are the rules in your household enforceable? Are you consistent in enforcing them? Which time do your children obey - the first, the sixth or when you get upset enough to enforce the rules? God draws each of us. How are you and your family responding to God this week?

PRAYER: Thank you, God, for our Bibles and for drawing us to Yourself.

PASSAGE SUMMARY

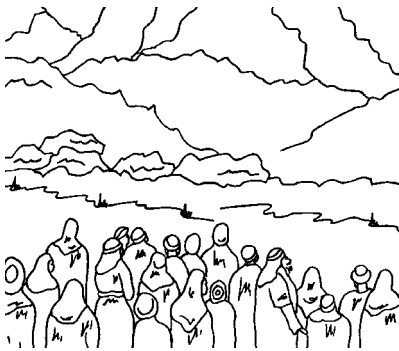

Lesson 8

Israel Approaches Mt. Sinai

Moses' second son was named Eliezer because Moses said the God of his father was his help and had delivered him from the sword of Pharaoh. Moses had sent his wife, Zipporah, and sons, Gershom and Eliezer, away earlier, but his father-in-law, Jethro, brought them back when the Israelites were out of Egypt.

While Jethro was visiting Moses, he saw and heard what had happened and believed in the LORD. He made a sacrifice to God with Aaron and the elders of Israel. Then Jethro watched Moses judge the people from morning until evening. Jethro suggested that Moses teach the people God's statutes and laws, and divide his duties among honest, able men who feared God. Moses did as Jethro suggested.

In the third month Israel entered the wilderness of Sinai. Moses went up the mountain to God, and God reminded him of what He had done for them and told him that if the people obeyed His voice and kept His covenant, they would be His possession. When Moses reported to the people, they said they would do all the LORD said.

The Lord instructed Moses to have the people consecrate themselves, wash their clothing and be ready for Him to come down to them on the third day. The LORD came down to Mount Sinai in fire and smoke with the people at the foot of the mountain. He called Moses up the mountain and told him to warn the people not to come too close. Moses told the people.

The LORD gave ten laws to the people. When the people saw and heard the thunder and lightning and the sound of the trumpet with the mountain smoking, they were afraid and asked Moses to speak to God for them. Moses told the people not to be afraid and went toward the thick cloud where God was.

God gave Moses instructions for sacrifices and offerings and specific laws. As we will see in Exodus 23, God said that if the people obeyed, He would prepare the way before them. They would have the land from the Red Sea to the sea of the Philistines and from the wilderness to the Euphrates River, and the inhabitants would be driven out. Moses reported to the people, and they agreed to obey all the LORD required.
