

A Student Perceives

Listening to the world,
And storing up sounds;
Looking at the world,
And seeing the wonder;
Tasting and smelling the world,
And calling it good or bad;
Feeling the world with the whole body,
And discovering how it fits;
These are the ways
A student perceives.

Providing pleasant sounds to hear,
Wonders to see and explore,
Treats to taste,
Fragrances to smell,
Loving arms to feel,
These are the ways
A teacher teaches.

Preface

Overview

Introduction This basic reference book is directed toward the junior ages. It includes general principles for teaching, guides for preparing weekly lessons, a description of available resources, and sets of creative ideas.

Focus This book considers the foundational basics of preparing for and carrying out the spiritual instruction of junior students. In the back there are tips and tools for practical usage. The premise is that students can and do learn spiritual truths. Parents have the primary responsibility for the spiritual training of children. However, teachers are responsible to support parents by the way they prepare and carry out the role of being a purified and ready vessel that reflects a picture of who God is and what He wants for each of their lives.

From the time a student enters the classroom you can direct their attention to a truth from the passage, and keep it there until they leave through a variety of activities, stories, songs and the like. Select what you need to fill the class time you have.

New? New teachers will find a thorough consideration of all aspects of the classroom experience. Do not expect to carry out everything efficiently and effectively the first time. Expect to learn and grow day by day and week by week. Proverbs 2 offers the basic guidelines for success. We are to search and study. God will provide the answers and guidance. And the last part of the chapter reveals some of the benefits. Other passages offer even more benefits such as 2 Timothy 3:16-17, John 1, and Psalm 119, not to mention every page of Scripture. Depend on the guidance, conviction, and comfort of the Holy Spirit regularly, and take things one day at a time.

Discouraged? Discouraged teachers can find new hope and direction. Sadly today, many instructional materials can leave us wondering just what we should be presenting. It is God's Word that is the truth. And when we "put the cookies on the bottom shelf where the students can reach them," they are ready, willing and eager to learn - for the most part. As you can imagine there are exceptions, and we will consider some of those. The focus will be on how to put the cookies on the bottom shelf.

Seasoned? Seasoned teachers can find helpful nuggets here and there to share with others. How can you use this book to help someone new or discouraged?
